

Gözde Susuzlu Briggs European Patients' Forum (EPF)

Vision

Our vision is a Europe where patients, carers and citizens are informed about and involved in responsible health data sharing, leading to trust, more effective research, improved healthcare and better outcomes.

Mission

- Our mission is to build awareness and trust in responsible health data sharing through:
  - a European Health Data website targeted towards patients' organisations and their members throughout Europe and multi-media channels to support outreach and dissemination;
  - a 'Health Data Community' to create meaningful dialogue, knowledge-building and insights on health data as European policy and practice evolves;
  - a network of health data ambassadors at national level promoting responsible use of health data.

How can your health data save lives?

The power of data starts with you. Good quality health data is vital for health professionals to provide safe and effective care. Health systems need to learn from our collective data to improve the quality, integration and safety of care. Health research needs to be accelerated so we can better prevent disease, improve care pathways and develop new forms of care delivery and treatment more quickly.

Data Saves Lives is a new initiative to promote greater awareness of how health data can be used in trustworthy ways to improve health and care.

WHAT IS DATA SAVES LIVES?

How can sharing your health data help others?

The major advances in technology in recent times has resulted in the existence of much more high-quality health related data and high-tech processing power capable of finding important patterns and meaningful results from the data that is available.
